

Centre to provide ongoing support to homeless

UNITINGCARE West have unveiled a new multi-million dollar centre which has been dubbed as Western Australia's first integrated service response to homelessness.

The centre in Aberdeen

Street Perth will act as a hub providing services for the people of Western Australia in areas of homelessness and accommodation support, financial counselling, emergency relief, mental health support, and a major drop-in service for people who are homeless.

UnitingCare West chief executive Chris Hall said the centre's aim was to provide an integrated holistic approach and ongoing guidance.
